

PROSPECTS FOR CITY BONDS

COMPTROLLER ISSUES A STATEMENT OF FINANCES.

His prospects to have $12,000,000 out of the $100,000,000 appropriated to the city this year—Margie Put at $100,000,000 in New Conditions.

Comptroller Frederickson in a statement he has prepared on the present condition of the city's finances showed that he expects to have more than $12,000,000 on the budget for this year. The appropriations made in this budget amounted to $100,000,000, but Mr. Frederickson expects to keep down the expenditures to $100,000,000.

Mr. Frederickson is also planning to withdraw about $20,000,000 of revenue bonds which are outstanding because taxes in anticipation of which they were issued are uncollectible.

"Experience has shown," the Comptroller says, "that a large amount of tax has been paid mainly upon personality and in part upon franchise assessments is uncollectible, and it is estimated that the total amount of this on January 1, 1910, was approximately $40,000,000. Ten millions of this, however, may be cancelled by available unexpended balances, leaving the net deficit approximately $30,000,000. The money which has been borrowed in anticipation of the collection of these taxes must necessarily be paid, but the policy under which this condition developed must and will be discontinued. In order to provide for the extinction of this deficiency I intend to issue corporate stock to the extent of at least $5,000,000 annually and further extinction should be provided for in yearly budgets. Three millions of the present bond issue will be for the purpose of funding this debt."

The Comptroller's statement contains the following summary of the "ultimate results of the administration of the city's finances, based on actual figures, commitments and estimates, as of January 1, 1910":

Cash in city treasury January 1, 1910.	$1,526,000
Estimated receipts during 1910 on account of this year's and prior years' taxes, including interest on revenue bonds, and also of special revenue bonds.	222,902,900
Estimated receipts of budget accounts in 1910 and after.	102,233,978
Estimated receipts in 1910 of permanent improvement accounts.	12,769,553
Estimated receipts of permanent improvement accounts in 1910 and after.	36,312,425
Estimated receipts in 1910 of special and trust accounts.	11,500,000
Revenues of sinking funds applicable to payments of interest and redemption of bonds in 1910.	8,128,000
Total.	$266,350,470
Estimated expenditures during 1910 on account of this year's and prior years' taxes, including interest on revenue bonds, and also of special revenue bonds.	$229,267,200
Estimated expenditures on account of budgets in 1910 and after.	102,233,978
Estimated expenditures in 1910 of permanent improvement accounts.	47,075,796
Estimated expenditures in 1910 of permanent improvement accounts in 1910 and after.	36,312,425
Estimated expenditures in 1910 of special and trust accounts.	11,500,000
Estimated expenditures of sinking funds applicable to payments of interest and redemption of bonds in 1910.	8,128,000
Total.	$466,350,470

The second item in the list is detailed as follows:

Estimated receipts from 1910 tax levy (levy estimated at $100,000,000).	$100,000,000
Estimated receipts from 1910 tax levy (levy estimated at $100,000,000).	25,000,000
Estimated receipts from 1910 tax levy (levy estimated at $100,000,000).	20,000,000
Estimated receipts from 1910 tax levy (levy estimated at $100,000,000).	4,000,000
Estimated receipts from 1910 tax levy (levy estimated at $100,000,000).	8,000,000
Total.	$252,000,000
Estimated payments on account of 1910 budget (authorized budget $100,000,000).	$100,000,000
Estimated payments on account of 1910 budget (authorized budget $100,000,000).	10,000,000
Estimated payments on account of 1910 budget (authorized budget $100,000,000).	10,000,000
Estimated payments on account of 1910 budget (authorized budget $100,000,000).	10,000,000
Estimated payments on account of 1910 budget (authorized budget $100,000,000).	10,000,000
Total.	$229,267,200

Before the end of the month there will be a sale of $20,000,000 of corporate stock. Mr. Frederickson figures it out that the city's borrowing margin on January 1, 1910, was $28,761,207, but the passage of the bill putting into effect the constitutional amendment that takes bonds off the books for so long a time as to make the debt add more than $100,000,000 to the city's borrowing power and to this must be added about $20,000,000, coming from the increased valuations of real estate for taxation.

The statement which Mr. Frederickson has compiled on the city's finances was prompted by the big bond issue which the city made recently. Dwelling on the city's resources and credit the Comptroller says:

"Favorable comment on the credit of the city of New York has been justified by the fact that many millions have been expended in recent years for public improvements, the debt from a standpoint of security is equivalent to a first mortgage of less than ten per cent on the valuation of all the taxable real estate of the city. The city's credit is, therefore, very high and it is to be expected that the city's borrowing power will be increased by the passage of the bill putting into effect the constitutional amendment that takes bonds off the books for so long a time as to make the debt add more than $100,000,000 to the city's borrowing power and to this must be added about $20,000,000, coming from the increased valuations of real estate for taxation."

MRS. HARTJE NOW SEES

Her Divorce to Be Heard in Court

Her Divorce to Be Heard in Court To-day—Jury Demanded.

PITTSBURGH, March 6.—To-morrow morning the divorce case of Mary Scott Hartje against Augustus Hartje will be opened. Hartje is very rich and is said to have spent more than $1,000,000 in his suit, trying to prove that his wife had been too friendly with other men.

Mrs. Hartje asks for a legal separation with as much alimony as the court can give her. Hartje has demanded a jury trial instead of having his case heard before a judge only.

Mrs. Hartje is anxious to-day over the divorce case and did not deny that she had recently expressed a willingness to have her troubles settled out of court. "It's something awful to contend with that mob crowd and to have your entire private life laid open in court," she said. "I would be willing to do almost anything to avoid that ordeal."

Hartje has refused to consider any compromise.

MRS. E. J. MC SCHACK'S DEATH.

Last of Six Sisters Famous in New York Society of Fifty Years Ago.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ines McCarty Schack, who died on Saturday and of whose death a brief mention was made in yesterday's Sun, was the last survivor of six sisters well known in New York society two generations ago. These were the Misses McCarty: Mary, Antoinette, Charlotte, Emma (Mrs. Watson), Augusta Tomlinson (Mrs. Jacob Little), Elizabeth (Mrs. Schack) and Helen (Mrs. William A. Jackson).

Their father was "Peter McCarty, Esq., gentleman," as recorded in early New York directories. He was descended from the Earl of Cincinatti through the latter's son, Capt. McCarty, who came to America and married the heiress of the Comyns of Gosnyans on the Hudson River, N. Y.

Elizabeth McCarty in the early '40s married Otto Wilhelm Christian Schack, whose father had been the Privy Counsellor to the King of Denmark and a Knight of the Order of Dannebrog.

Mr. Schack's brother was Gen. Sophus Schack, who while a young lieutenant became one of the most distinguished painters of Denmark and whose achievements in the winning of gold and silver medals in the Academy of Fine Arts was paralleled but once previously and that by Thorwaldsen, the sculptor.

Otto Wilhelm had been destined by his father, the Prime Minister, first for a naval and then for a diplomatic career, but a broken arm disqualified him for the one and yellow fever in the legation to which he was to be sent changed his plans for the other.

The Danish Consul-General to New York, visiting Copenhagen, persuaded the young Danes to accompany him to America. He remained here and went into business. After a few years he married Elizabeth McCarty. He became a member of the New York Stock Exchange and of the Knickerbocker Club. It was through this house that some of the biggest stock transactions of that day were carried on. Mr. Schack was also known in Masonry, being Most Wise and Perfect Master of his Rose Croix Chapter.

Mrs. Schack was a most talented woman full of wit and brilliant repartee. Like her husband she was gifted in music, painting and in literary pursuits.

Up to the time of Mr. Schack's death he and his wife lived at 173 Madison avenue. The most intimate of their friends was the late President Arthur and his wife. Her most intimate friend was Mrs. de Hegemann-Rindencrone, wife of the Danish Minister to Berlin who was Miss Lily Greenough.

Of her family the best known was Mr. Schack's sister, Mrs. Jacob Little. Her husband was the secretary of the New York Stock Exchange, who was the best known operator of the market. Mr. Schack was married to Miss Lily Greenough, who was the daughter of a prominent family. He married Miss Lily Greenough, who was the daughter of a prominent family. HACKALAH BAILEY DEAD.

Descendant of Man Who Brought the First Elephant to This Country.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., March 6.—Hackalah Bailey, who is dead at the home of his son, Oscar Bailey, at Brewster, in his eighty-ninth year, was a member of the famous Bailey family. He travelled for many years and gave exhibitions in barns during the day, charging a cent admission to see the "Greatest Show Elephant on Earth." The first circus in America was given at Somers with only Old Bet as the whole show.

Mr. Bailey helped erect an "elephant monument," which still stands at Somers. He was a descendant of the first elephant to be brought to America in 1821.

The elephant was named Old Bet, and Hackalah made her walk all the way from New York to Somers, in the northern part of Westchester county. The elephant was named Old Bet, and Hackalah made her walk all the way from New York to Somers, in the northern part of Westchester county.

WORK OF BATTLESHIP FLEET.

Landing Forces Return to Ship—Best Gun and Field Gun Practice—Sports.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Rear-Admiral Sigsbee, commanding the Atlantic battleship fleet now at Guantanamo, advised the Navy Department to-day that the scheduled work of the fleet has been continued during the last week. The dispatch was as follows:

Friday afternoon a regiment consisting of the landing forces of the Connecticut, Kansas, Virginia and Missouri completed rifle and pistol target practice and broke camp and returned to their ships after two weeks' encampment ashore. This completes the exercises of all ships. All ships except the Connecticut, Kansas, Virginia and Missouri are filled up with coal. Continued Admiral's inspections of ships. Boat crews of all ships held boat gun and field gun target practice. Several ships exercised at carrying out anchors and putting springs on cable, also battalion wheeling. Continued instructions of all men who cannot swim. During week 302 men qualified.

SPORTS FOR WEEK BEGAN ON FRIDAY.

Sports for week began on Friday, on which day had rowing and sailing races for department trophies for vessels with complements greater than 200; also fifty and six yard and half mile swimming races. Last night the Connecticut, Kansas, Virginia and Missouri completed rifle and pistol target practice and broke camp and returned to their ships after two weeks' encampment ashore. NO AID TO THE INSURGENTS

PLAN OF CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN APPROVED BY TAFT.

No insurgent to be opposed if Regularly Nominated, but if He Gets Support Literature From the Committee It Will Be the Straight United Joe Brand.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—President Taft has given his approval to plans that have just been perfected by the Republican leaders under which the Republican campaign to be conducted next fall for the control of the House of Representatives in the new Congress shall be waged along lines of strict regularity. In other words, all the literature that is prepared for circulation in the coming campaign by the Republican Congressional committee and all the speeches delivered under the auspices of that organization will advocate straight Republican doctrine as distinguished from Democratic policies and policies advocated by the Republican insurgents in the Senate and in the House.

The plan of campaign to be fought by the Republican Congressional committee was submitted to the President in detail by Representative William B. McKinley of Illinois, chairman of that organization.

It may be stated on authority that no Republican nominee will be opposed at the polls by the Republican Congressional committee, but notice will be served on the insurgents by the leaders that all the campaign literature will be "regular" and that all the speakers that take the stump under the direction of Chairman McKinley will talk along lines approved by the Republican leadership in Congress. As a practical proposition this means that in a large measure the dyed in the wool insurgents who opposed the passage of the tariff bill and who have denounced Cannonism, can expect little help from the Republican Congressional committee in their campaigns for reelection.

For example President Taft's speech on the tariff, delivered at Winona, Minn., in September, 1909, is accepted by the Republican Congressional committee as orthodox party doctrine. It declares the Aldrich-Payne act to be the "best tariff law" ever passed by Congress. Millions of copies of this speech will be circulated in the coming campaign. The speech of Joseph G. Cannon defending Cannonism, delivered before the Knife and Fork Club of Kansas City some weeks ago, has also been approved as a campaign document. The insurgent speakers and those of other of a like nature for use in their districts or let them alone, just as they see fit.

President Taft has expressed satisfaction with this style of campaign, and if he follows the advice of certain leaders he will start the ball rolling in one of the speeches that he is to make on his forthcoming Western trip. It is the general understanding that Mr. Taft is prepared to deliver some pretty strong speeches against the insurgent Republican movement in Congress.

Chairman McKinley said to-day that the campaign to be waged this year will be the most vigorous ever conducted by the Republicans. The battle ground will be in the middle West, and an army of speakers will be sent into the West as soon as the Congress adjourns and kept in action until the polls close in November. The Chautauqua belt, around which Senators La Follette, Debs and others are making a tour, has been invaded by regular Republicans. There is a strong probability that Speaker Cannon will be induced to appear on the Chautauqua circuit. He has under consideration an invitation to make a series of speeches from platforms that have been adorned by Senator La Follette.

The Republican Congressional committee has booked twenty regular orators for 125 speeches in Chautauqua, in the middle West during July and August. Bookings will also be made for the section for regular Republican speakers for September and October.

"Our campaign this year will be the most comprehensive ever undertaken by a political party in the United States," said Chairman McKinley. "I have never entered a contest where I was more hopeful of success. However, it is well to be doing in politics, no matter how low the prospects may appear. We will put an army of orators into the field and flood the country with literature breathing of good time and Republican doctrine. You may rest assured that there will be a good deal going on in this campaign, which is in reality already under way."

The Republicans made such ambitious plans to tell their side of the story in document form. In the four months prior to the national election in 1908 the Republican Congressional committee sent out 11,000,000 pieces of literature. That was the high water mark up to that time. It is planned to circulate approximately 20,000,000 pieces of literature this year. This tremendous volume of paper will be projected toward the middle West and in certain States in other sections where things are a little better for the Republicans. Just how much of this matter will go into districts represented by insurgents will depend on the insinuations of the Republican leaders.

In the past the committee has sent out millions of copies of bulky speeches. An innovation will be inaugurated this year. A number of speeches delivered by the President and other party leaders have been selected for circulation, but so far as possible the committee will limit itself to the use of brief, snappy statements devoted to issues that are expected to be discussed. The committee will circulate in large quantities documents on various topics that may be placed in a vest pocket and that can be long drawn out speeches that have been so popular in the past.

While Chairman McKinley is not disposed to discuss the subject at length at the moment, he makes it plain that he is optimistic of mind and he is intimated to-day that the President is convinced that his administration will be regarded by the people in the November elections.

THE TAILOR UNTAILORED.

Abe Cutler's Shop Was Also a Footroom, So Defective Sewer.

Abe Cutler, a tailor, of 300 West 119th street has an avocation that got him into trouble. Detective Jensen, Hennessey and Hughes got the idea that Abe was sticking to his tape and bodkin and went into the shop at 77 Nassau street on Saturday afternoon. They were in the Tombs court yesterday that Cutler was selling pools on the Jacksonville races over a table covered with eleven racing charts and four slips on which bets were recorded, all of which they said they took from Cutler.

"Here is a tailor untailored," said Magistrate Herrman. "Five hundred dollars for Special Sessions."

RAID BROADWAY DANCE HALL.

Twelve Girls and the Manager Taken From the 'Clermont Academy.'

The manager of the Clermont Dances Academy at 1081 Broadway and a dozen girls were arrested at the academy yesterday at the instance of the Gerry society. The manager, Frank Sugrue, is charged with impairing the morals of minors.

The girls range in age from fifteen to eighteen years. All were dancing at the time of their arrest. They were taken to the rooms of the Children's society. The dance hall is near a party of fifty-dance and a shop on Broadway.

REFREREE STUDIES AN ORPHAN.

Philosophies on the Amount It Is Best to Spend on His Keep.

Robert A. Chambers, 14 years old, who has an income of $5,500 from the estate of his father, Robert Chambers, for many years a member of the New York Stock Exchange, and of $20,000 from the estate of his mother, may have only $5,500 yearly of the $24,500 for his education and maintenance under a ruling by Michael J. Mukueen, who was appointed referee to take testimony on the application of the boy's guardian, Mortimer M. Singer, for direction of the Court as to the proper amount to spend.

The boy's father died on February 7, 1908, and his mother died last November. He was the only child he inherited the entire estate of both. The estate of his mother, who was Josephine Blanche Singer, included 1,200 shares of Singer Manufacturing Company stock.

The boy's guardian asked permission to buy two horses and the carriage owned by the mother, and in his report the referee said that the aim of the Court was to act as the parent would have acted. "His father and mother would like him brought up to live well within his income and follow in their footsteps, saving each year a substantial sum," says the guardian's report. "The boy would like to have a horse and carriage $5,500 a year, out of which he will maintain the two horses and carriage belonging to his mother, and says that without this $5,500 would be enough. The amount is so exceedingly reasonable that it is recommended without hesitation."

The referee said that a more serious question arises on the purchase of the horse and carriage, which the boy will spend $2,500 a year to maintain and to retain an old coachman who has been in the family thirty-five years. The question is whether the ownership of the horse and carriage will be a detriment to the boy's education and to his life all desire for the sports of boys, sports which develop the muscle, brain and mind of all boys, and make them at maturity the equal mentally and physically of any boys in the world. The referee said that at the hearing he didn't think it was for the boy's best interest to buy the horse and carriage and maintain them, but on reflection he has changed his mind.

The circumstances of this case are peculiarly sad, he says. "Here is a little boy of 14 who loses his father in February and his mother in November. He has to leave the house he was born in and to go live with his aunt. The only things remaining with which to link his past with his present loneliness are these horses and carriage of his mother."

The referee says that as the general guardian has custody of the boy and permit the possession of the horse to interfere with the sports and activity of the boy he has concluded to recommend that they be purchased.

SHOT AT WIFE AND HIT BABY.

Joseph Feldman Attempted Murder—Wounded His 3-Year-Old Son.

Joseph Feldman, a sewing machine operator, shot his three-year-old son, Louis, last night while the child was clinging to his mother's neck. The bullet was intended for the mother. The child was injured. The shooting occurred at the home of Feldman's father-in-law, 18 Hopkinson street, Brooklyn.

Feldman is 21 years old. He was married, Dora, is 21. They have been married five years. Two years ago they became reconciled and Feldman has been living with his wife's people since.

Last night he returned to the house at 18 Hopkinson street, Brooklyn. He heard him say that he was going to kill his wife. He went into his wife's bedroom, where she was asleep. Their son was with her. Feldman took a .38 Smith and Wesson revolver and shot at her. She jumped from the bed and ran into the dining room.

Her husband followed and fired again. The bullet struck her in the back and fell on her knees. The baby toddled out from the bedroom crying and went to his mother. Feldman fired again. The bullet struck the child in the head. The mother fainted and the father jumped out of a window, fifteen feet, to the ground and ran away. The police are looking for him.

CONEY ISLAND BARKS AGAIN.

Estimates That 50,000 Persons Went Down to the Seaside Yesterday.

The voice of the barker was heard again at Coney Island yesterday. Surf avenue was jammed with all sorts and conditions of joy filled vehicles, and a crowd, estimated by optimists at 50,000, sought once more the frankfurter beneath a springtime sun. Also it had its pictures taken sitting in automobiles with a proprietary air. It wandered down to the beach, where the hardies of the Coney Island Swimming Club, who bath regularly, were seen to be a little better than the others. They were enjoying themselves and the attention they attracted in the surf.

One far sighted taxicab company sent down to the beach a car which was open not open until May 15 and Steeplechase Park will not resume activities until two weeks from to-day, so all the amusements and places had the business to themselves. The B. R. T. put on a few extra cars, and some additional policemen were hustled down, but they were not worked hard. Only one case was reported.

At dusk a sea fog rolled in that made most of the folks remember that it was still March in spite of yesterday's April disfigure.

UP TO FEDERAL GRAND JURY.

It Must Decide Whether the Beef Trust Should Be Prosecuted.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—It is up to the Federal Grand Jury now in session in Chicago to say whether or not the beef trust and its officers shall be prosecuted under the Sherman anti-trust law for alleged combination in restraint of trade. Following a second conference at the Department of Justice to-day between Wado H. Ellis, in charge of the case against the beef trust United States District Attorney Sims and Assistant United States District Attorney Wilkerson and Oliver H. Pagen, special indictment drawer for the Department, it was made known that the Federal Grand Jury will determine whether or not the Government suit proceed.

The Department of Justice has collected all sorts of evidence against the beef trust and possibly against the officials, but it is said it can do no more. These facts have been presented to the Grand Jury and more data will be before that body when Mr. Sims returns to Chicago to-morrow. If the Grand Jury finds the evidence sufficient and returns indictments the Department of Justice will proceed with the prosecutions.

ANOTHER B. & O. CONFERENCE.

Commissioner Nell Speaks Labor Leaders, but Achieves No Results.

BALTIMORE, March 6.—There was another conference to-day between Commissioner of Labor and President of the Brotherhood of Railway Carpenters and President of the Order of Trainmen and a special committee from the two organizations.

Though the conference lasted for three hours no definite results were accomplished. The labor parties to the conference would make any statement.

HUDSON RIVER TUBES

(MADDOX TUNNELS)

Pennsylvania Railroad

The following paragraphs from the annual report of the Pennsylvania Railroad for 1909, just issued, emphasize the importance of the Hudson River Tubes and the great Hudson Terminal at Cortlandt, Church and Fulton streets:

"The downtown tunnels of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company were opened for traffic on July 16th, and under agreements previously made, passengers to and from your lines have the option of using these rapid transit tunnels between your Jersey City station and the terminal of that Company at Church and Cortlandt Streets, New York. This tunnel system will also be extended through Jersey City westward from your station to a point east of Summit Avenue, where connection will be made with your lines. Your railroad will be electrified from that connection to the new station at Harrison, N. J., and a new branch will be constructed from the latter point into Park Place in the city of Newark. A joint rapid transit electric service will then be operated between the Hudson Company's Church Street Terminal, New York City, and Park Place Station, Newark. The new station at Harrison will provide the facilities for passengers desiring to transfer between this rapid transit line and all trains on your system.

With all of these facilities provided it is felt that every reasonable requirement for the passenger service in and out of New York City will be fully met and that portions of the present tracks, terminals, and ferry facilities will then also be available for freight traffic."

During the coming summer new Tube stations will be opened at Newark Avenue in Jersey City, and New York at 33d street and Broadway.

The principal gateway of the Pennsylvania Railroad to "Downtown New York" is through the

RAID ON A NEWARK THEATRE

SHERIFF HARRIGAN PULLS AMERICAN MUSIC HALL.

Had Defied His Order to Close on Sunday—No as to Test the Amusement Law—Actors and Actresses Taken to Jail and Locked 'till for a Brief Time.

Defying an order from Sheriff William Harrigan to close, the management of the American Music Hall in Newark gave a Sunday vaudeville performance yesterday afternoon with the result that the Sheriff raided the theatre and made arrests. The actors and actresses were taken into custody by the Sheriff and his deputies as soon as they finished their acts and with officials of the theatre were taken to the Newark jail. There was hardly a vacant seat in the house. A crowd of nearly 5,000 people gathered in the streets to watch what was going on.

The raid was made over the heads of the police. When the Sheriff learned that the performance was being given he sent Under-Sheriff Charles A. Reilly at the head of a posse of twenty deputies to make the arrest. The deputies were accompanied by the jail van. The Sheriff had asked the police to lend him two patrol wagons, but this was refused. After two patrol loads of men prisoners had been received at the jail Frank M. McDermitt, counsel for the theatre management, lent his automobile to the cause and all the women prisoners were taken in it to the jail.

The prisoners were arraigned before Justice of the Peace William O. Miller later. A charge of conducting a disorderly house was made against George A. McDermitt, the theatre manager, and he was placed under $750 bail, which was furnished.

The others were charged with aiding and abetting in maintaining a disorderly house. The men were released in $300 bail each and the women in $100 bail each. They will have a hearing to-morrow morning before Judge Hahn in the First Criminal Court.

It was shortly after 2 o'clock when Under Sheriff Reilly and his deputies reached the theatre. The first act was on. Kennedy and Kennedy performing in a buck and wing dancing and singing sketch. As soon as they left the stage the Sheriff's men informed them that they were under arrest and told them to dress to make the journey to the jail. At the jail Kennedy gave his address as Chicago, his partner said she lived on East Lafayette avenue, Baltimore. The others arrested were Frederick L. Loria, an acrobat, of 21 Pine street, Newark, and John Whitaker, a scoubette, of 213 West 12th street, New York. His assistant, who gave the same address, Matthew Keefe, a singer, of New York; Henry Lee, impersonator, New York, being the headliner; Bessie Leonard, a scoubette, of 213 West 12th street, New York; and Dorothy Treack, 1820 Prospect avenue, New York; Thomas and Stacia Moore, Third avenue and Thirty-fourth street, New York; Catherine Collins, 213 West 12th street, New York, maid of Mrs. Moore; Mr. McDermitt, 157 William street; Roy Baker, the advertising manager, 124

REV. DR. MACDONALD TO STAY.

Baptist Clergyman, With Liberal Ideas to Remain With His Flock.

The Rev. Dr. Robert MacDonald of the Washington avenue Baptist Church in Brooklyn announced last night from the pulpit at the close of the evening services that instead of tendering his resignation, as the congregation expected he would, he and the deacons of the church were in full accord, and he would continue as the pastor of the church.

Dr. MacDonald's resignation was expected because of a sermon delivered last Sunday in which he took a broad view of church doctrine and expressed himself as opposed to immersion in any necessity for church membership. He also said he was in favor of open communion.

In that sermon he announced that he had received a call from the First Congregational Church of Lynn, Mass., and if his views were too broad for the Baptists he was prepared to accept the call. In making his statements after the sermon last night on the subject "Setting the Mind on Things Above" Dr. MacDonald said:

"I believe it due to the deacons of this church to say that I am not responsible for the statements made in my sermon last week, and I do not want it understood that either deacons or church itself should assume responsibility for those statements. Since that time the deacons and I have come into full accord."

Schooner Asbury Fountain Towed Into Port.

Norfolk, Va., March 6.—The four masted schooner Asbury Fountain, which was run down eighteen miles south of Winter Quarter light early Thursday morning by the Old Dominion steamer Catherine, was towed into Hampton Roads to-day by the revenue cutter Onondaga and Mohawk. The Fountain carries a cargo of lumber valued at $40,000.
